

CATERPILLARS MAKE TRUCKS

MORE EFFICIENT

Kelly Caterpillar Tires prevent slipping wheels. Their patented side-vent construction enables them to grip the road as no ordinary tire can. They conserve the engine's power, enable the truck to carry bigger loads and to travel over roads where they dare not venture on ordinary tires. That is why Caterpillars are growing in popularity so rapidly.

300,000 Persons See
King Alexander Wed
Rumanian Princess

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

BELGRADE, June 9.—Three hundred thousand persons from all parts of the kingdom witnessed the marriage yesterday of King Alexander of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes and Princess Marie of Rumania.

The ceremony was performed amid the greatest pomp that Belgrade has seen since the establishment of the new triple kingdom.

Many little romances and royal love affairs which rumor had woven around the eligible young King of Yugoslavia were halted rather abruptly early this year by the official announcement that he would wed Princess Marie, second daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania.

Both King Alexander and Princess Marie had been reported engaged to sons of various royal houses from time to time, but the first intimation that they were interested in each other came less than a year ago.

Gossips Tongue Wags

Despite the fact that he was known to be a rather proud, studious young man, the courts of Europe had buzzed with stories linking his name with various favorites of the Parisian night life. These were ignored at Bucharest, where the Prince had told every one his ambitions. He was anxious to tighten the bonds between Yugoslavia and Rumania in order to insure peace to the Balkans, and he knew his marriage to Marie was the most decisive step he could take in this direction.

Yet the royal heads of Europe kept wagging. They knew the ruler of Yugoslavia was only 30, they knew, too, that he had displayed his fickleness once or twice before. They forgot the devotion he showered upon Titiana, eldest daughter of Czar Nicholas, who was lost to him through the Red executioners, and remembered only the suddenness with which he seemed to forget her and fall under the charm of Princess Sophie, daughter of Prince Emanuel, Duke of Vendome and Alencon, a number of the Bourbon Orleans family.

The Yugoslav Legation in Paris issued a denial of the rumors that he was engaged to Princess Sophie, but it failed to still the gossip. Meanwhile the Prince had seen much of Marie while he was convalescing in Paris from an attack of appendicitis. Almost his first act upon leaving the French capital was to visit the Rumanian royal chateau of Sinal, where he spent the Christmas holidays last year with the Princess. This, and various encouraging statements from the Bucharest court, paved the way for a formal announcement.

Bride Widely Sought

The Princess, in the meantime, had not been neglected by the match-makers. She was considered the prettiest girl of royal blood in Europe which won her the affectionate title of "Miknon" in court circles. Long before she was mentioned in connection with Alexander, she had been reported engaged to the Prince of Wales. She was known to be well liked at Windsor Palace, where she was a constant visitor while attending school in England. When this match failed to develop fast enough for the gossips, they transferred her affections to King Boris of Bulgaria, only to find themselves thwarted by official denials from the royal households of both Rumania and Bulgaria.

Her marriage today marks the first wedding in Europe since the war in which the bride and groom were both of reigning families.

Plans for the wedding have attracted considerable attention to the Rumanian rulers as well as reviving reports that Queen Marie intends to visit the United States a trip she has planned several times since the Armistice. In view of the fact that she faces her own coronation ceremony, tentatively set for sometime in the Fall, it is thought likely that she may come to the United States after the wedding and postpone the coronation if necessary.

She issued a statement recently to the effect that many pressing invitations had been received from Women's clubs and civic societies in the United States and that she found it difficult to resist them.

Born Second Son

King Alexander of Yugoslavia, second son of the late King Peter of Serbia, became heir apparent to his father's throne in 1909 when his elder brother, Prince George renounced his rights as a sequel to a bitter press campaign in which an almost endless list of outrages were charged against him. The campaign was intensified by charges that the royal youngster had murdered one of his servants during a fit of anger.

Serbia, upon its liberation from the Austrians, became the predominant state in the organization of Yugoslavia, therefore it was certain that its Prince Regent, as Alexander had been designated when King Peter retired in 1914, was headed straight for the new throne.

He had won the respect and esteem of the Balkans in many ways, but chiefly through his efforts to unite the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, formerly under the Austrian yoke. These endeavors won him the title of "Peacemaker". His action in appointing governors for Serbia, Montenegro, Slavonia, Bosnia, Dalmatia and Croatia was warmly approved.

King Peter died in August, 1921, at the age of 76, and Alexander, then suffering from an attack of appendicitis in a Paris hospital, was proclaimed his father's successor at Belgrade.

King Alexander was born in 1888. As a youth he was frail and sickly, but his career began to give more promise after several years of hard campaigning at the head of Serbia's army. His education was completed at Petrograd and his first real military training was obtained in the Balkan War of 1912.

Devoted to Allies

Throughout the World War he was devoted to the Allied cause. It was Alexander who ordered the mobilization of Serbia's army and personally led it into battle. He was severely wounded in the fighting around Belgrade before his troops were forced to evacuate the city, and barely escaped capture at Nish, where he set up a capital for a brief period before the Austrians entered.

Several attempts were made to assassinate him during his regency, and after he became King. The latest of these occurred in June, 1921, and resulted in the death of one person and the wounding of six others. Some 14,000 persons were arrested as a result of the plot.

Bride of Rare Beauty

The young Princess Marie, called the prettiest Princess in Europe, is only 22 years of age. She is the second daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania, and is not well known for the reason that her life has been spent quietly at home except for a short period in England, where she attended school.

Her mother, born an English Princess, has one of the most interesting personalities to be found among the crowned heads of Europe. While she has been charged with attempting to build up a tremendous power by marrying her children to the greatest political advantage, she has stated emphatically that the betrothal of Marie was the result of a genuine love match.

"It is a mistake and unfair to say that it is a political marriage," she said recently. "Even among kings and princesses there is such a thing as love at first sight. That is what happened in this case."

Military Governors
Of China Provinces
Bitterly Denounced

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

TIEN-TSIN, June 8.—Wu Pei Fu and Tsao Kun his chief lieutenant offered to resign if Li Yuan Hung will accept the presidency. It is suggested that Li Yuan Hung accept the presidency for one year on the condition the Te-Chuns will resign within the year. It is feared if the Te-Chuns resign immediately their unpaid troops will resort to mutiny and looting.

Li Yuan Hung who is being urged to accept the new presidency of China telegraphed a remarkable manifesto throughout the country scathingly denouncing the Te-Chuns or military governors and the system by which they have reduced China to negligible importance. He declared the Te-Chuns must sacrifice themselves or the nation will do so. The manifesto has created a general sensation.
